MING Table

By revealing the usually hidden constructional pieces, the designer has created this unusual Ming-style table.

The makers of the traditional Ming-style furniture consider that it is necessary to present some essential constructional parts as decorative elements in order to make the whole furniture beautiful.

But Tian Zhen is fascinated by the beauty bearing within the original appearance of those pieces. Her “MING” table hides nothing – all the constructional pieces are visible as their initial functions. In that way, they become the inseparable parts of the whole design.

About the name

The name “MING” (明) not only refers to Ming-style furniture, but also has the meaning “clear”.
